

| Companies House

Transparency versus privacy

James Biott

Principal Policy Adviser, Companies House, UK

Companies House

The deal ...

Limited liability and transparency

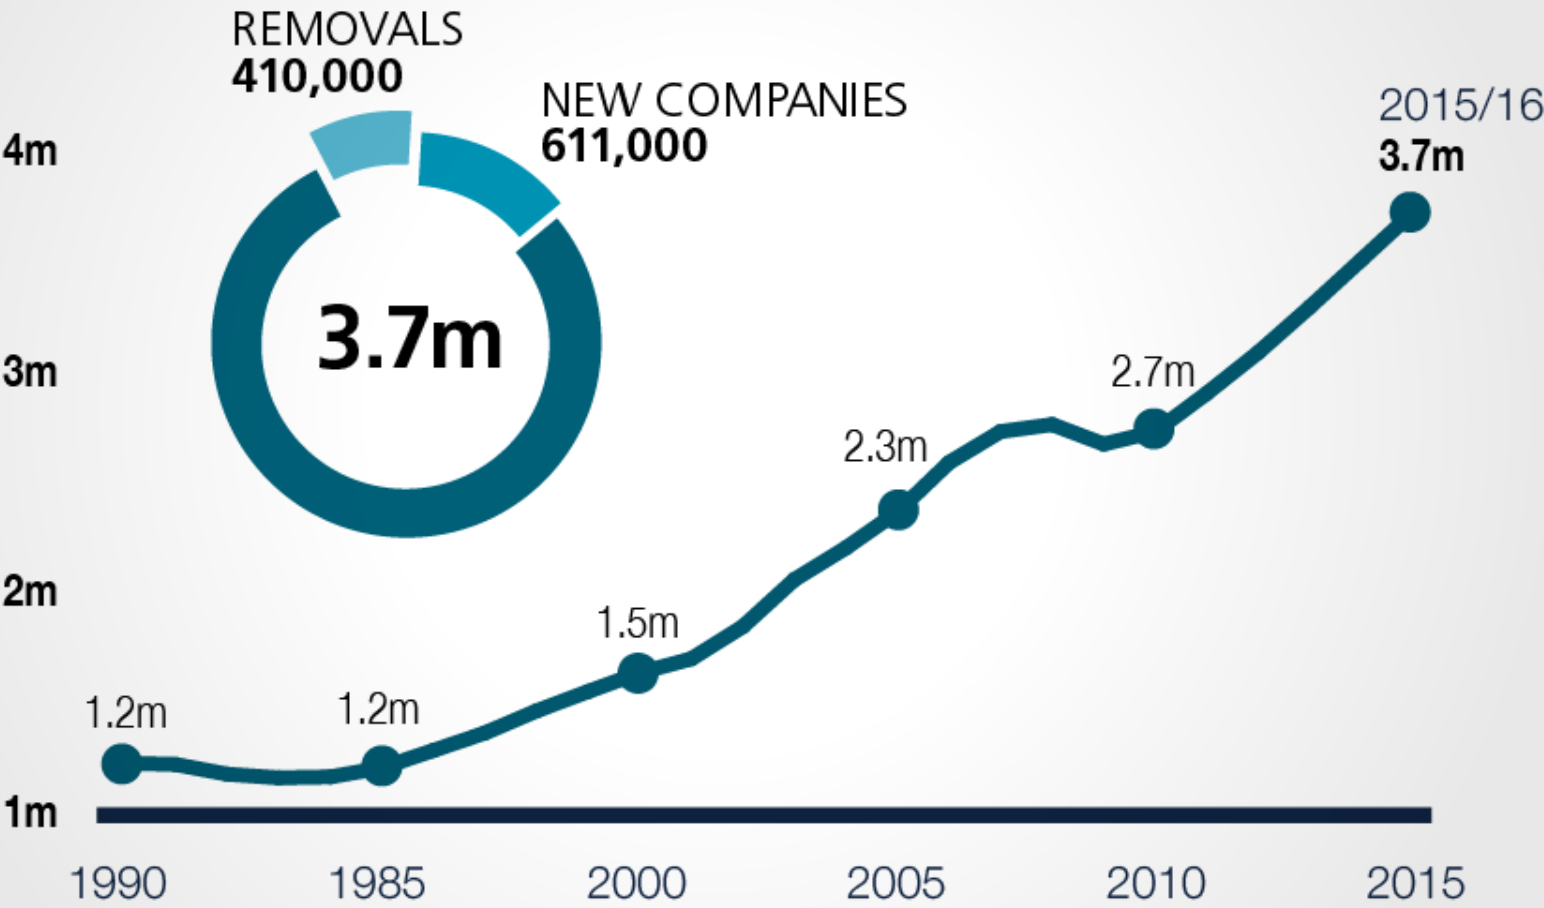

The purpose ...

Supporting the economy

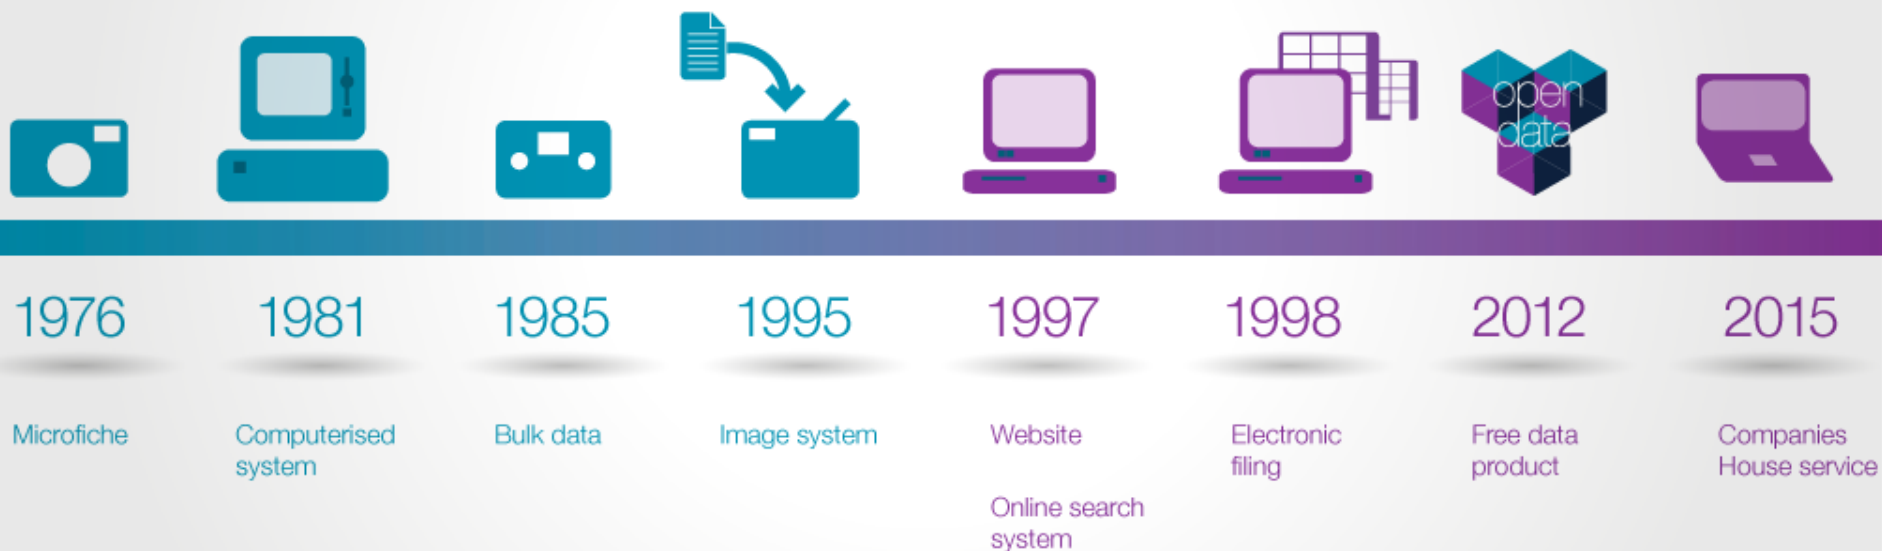

Companies House

Growth in register size

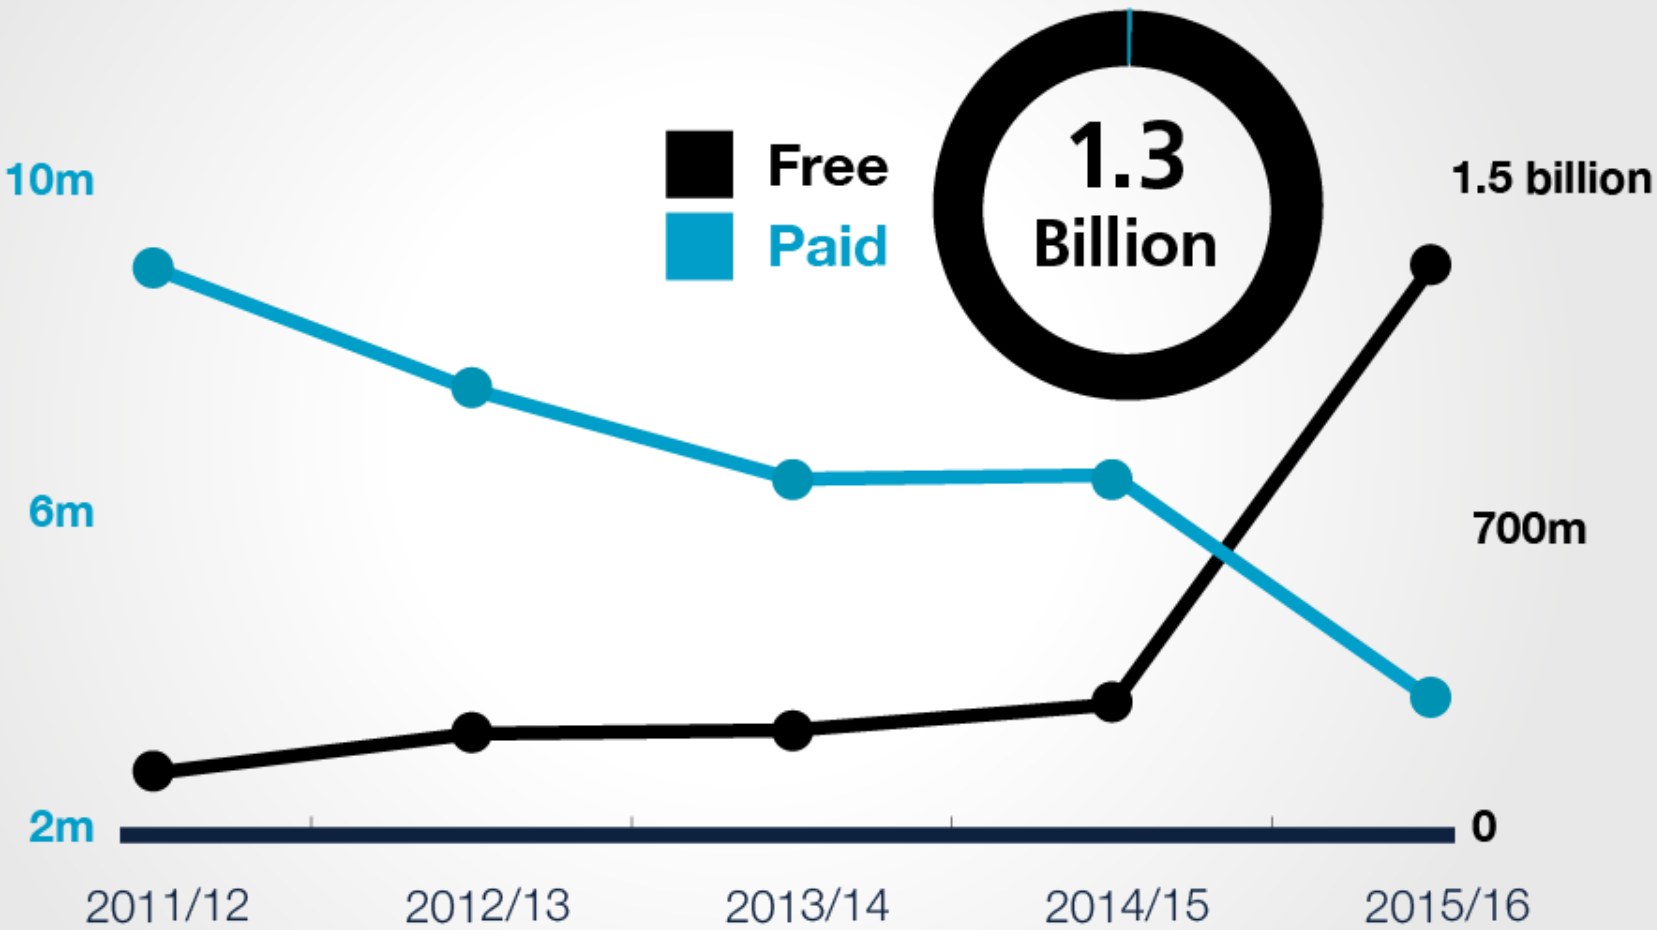

Companies House timeline

FREE

A large, three-dimensional sign spelling the word "FREE" in a bold, sans-serif font. The letters are a bright yellow-gold color and are filled with numerous small, circular light bulbs that are turned on, creating a warm, glowing effect. The sign is mounted on a solid, vibrant blue wall. A black power cord is visible on the left side, extending from the bottom of the sign. The lighting is even, and the background is a uniform blue.

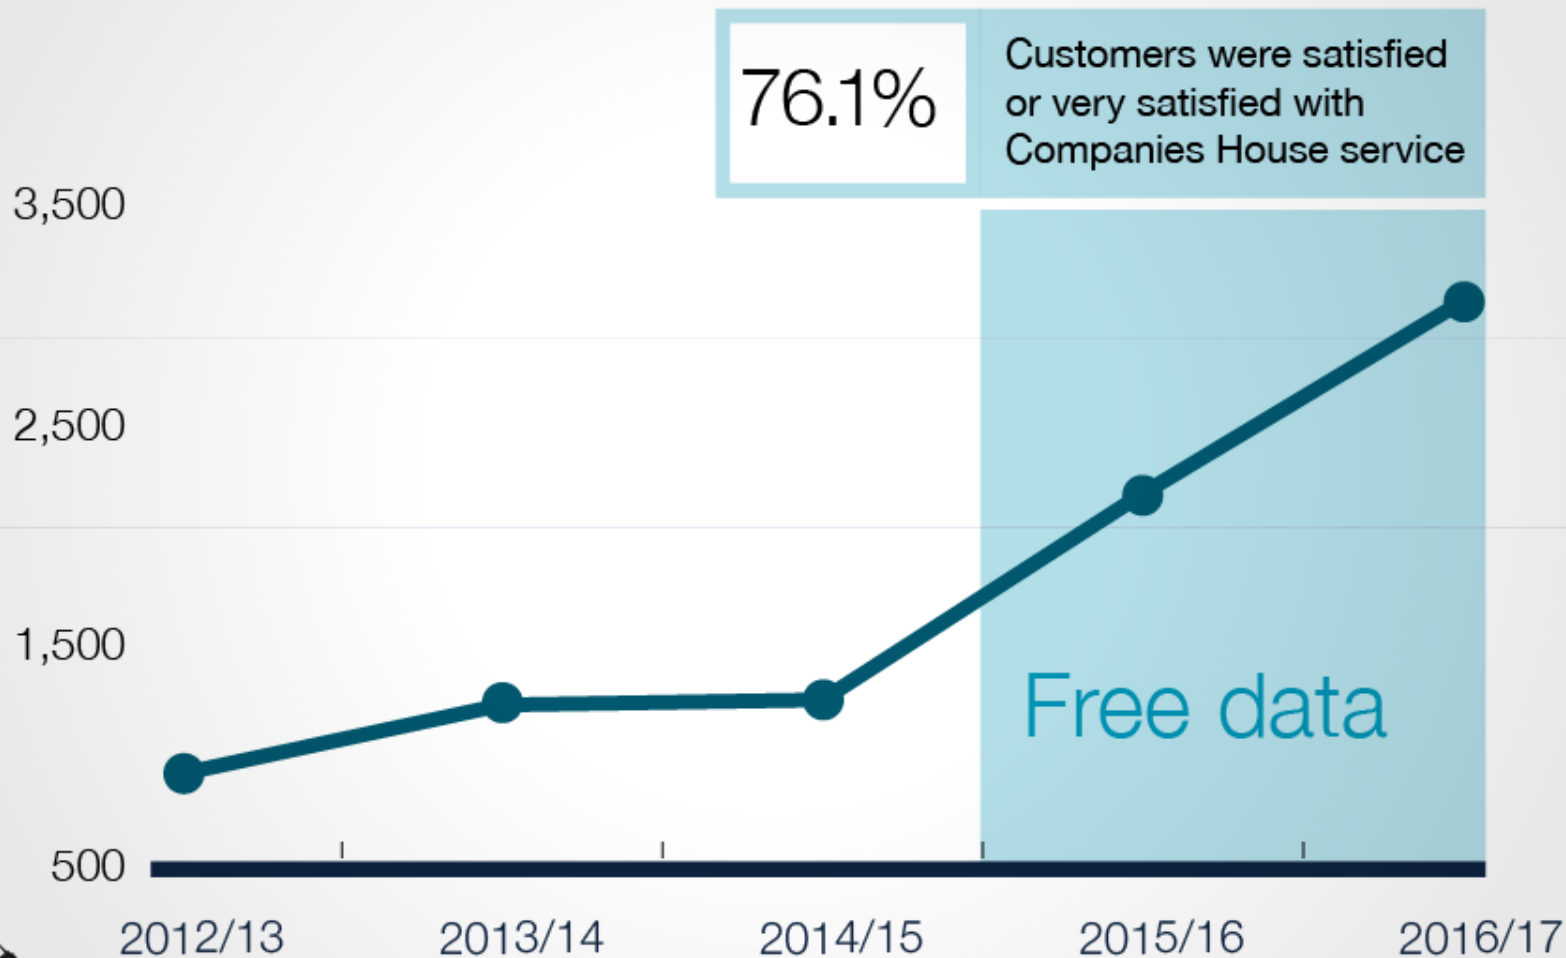

Free data requests and paid searches

Personal data complaints

Learning lessons

Dissolved company information

Transparency

Protection of individuals

Companies House

Do you recognise any of the issues mentioned?

Have you already had similar concerns?

How did you deal with these and what happened?

Do your customers accept the need for privacy and transparency?

If you collect personal data, do you make it available to the public?